CHESTUNG IS TO GO IN FOREIGN OFFICE.

Former Ambassador Here May Get Appointment from the Chinese Throne.

Peking, Sept. 4.—It is reported that a place will be provided in the foreign office for Sir Cheung Liang Cheng, the former Chinese minister at Washington, following his arrival here yesterday.

The action of the throne in calling to the capital Chang Chi Tung, who is China's greatest scholar, and Yuan Shi Kai, the most liberal of the progressive Chinese statesmen, has caused an excellent impression. It is expected that Tung-fang will shortly be made viceroy of Chih province, succeeding Yuan Shi Kai.

The dowager empress, in surrounding herself with the strongest and most able men of the empire, has surprised even those who were aware of the throne's apprehensions and its determination to fortify the government to the utmost.

DYNAMITERS BLOW UP STORE IN CHICAGO.

Several Persons Asleep Are Thrown From Their Beds.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—An explosion in the store of Stanley R. Graham, dealer in paints and wall paper at 149 North State street at 3 o'clock yesterday morning partially wrecked the building and threw out of bed several persons asleep on the second floor, but injured no one. The detonation was heard a mile away, and the guests at the Virginia hotel nearby, as well as the occupants of houses in the vicinity, were awakened and all were for a time excited and a few ran into the streets.

The explosion is attributed to the "dynamiters" who have been, as is believed by the police, trying to revenge themselves upon the Chicago gamblers. But why Mr. Graham should have been selected as a victim of their vengeance is at present unknown.

There are separate indictments against each on the charge of misdemeanor, and a fifth charges them jointly with conspiracy to aid and abet a misdemeanor. In the indictments are allegations of conspiracy to produce a false registration and fraudulent voting and conspiracy to issue fraudulent tax receipts.

"Way Down East."

Most all theatregoers are familiar with the story and characters of "Way Down East" for it has been presented in nearly every town and city in the United States, and Canada during the past ten years. In presenting the play again the present season Managers Brady and Griesmer are only complying with a universal demand, and as heretofore they have provided an excellent cast and elaborate production.

"Age does not wither nor custom stale" its "infinite variety" and no further proof of its undying powers to please is needed than the fact that local managers everywhere still regard it among their gilt-edge bookings. The fact that it appeals to no limited class, but to all alike, gives it a universal audience, and its quaint pictures of rural life, inoffensive comedy and homely

IMITATES JOAN OF ARC.

French-Canadian Woman Burns Herself to Death on Pyre.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 5.—Imagining that she had been destined to share the fate of Joan of Arc, Mrs. Joseph Lalonde of St. Lazare, a small French-Canadian village, burned herself to death on a funeral pyre of her own making. While her relatives were at church she built the pyre from fence logs and tree branches, undressed herself entirely and climbed on the pyre, to which she set fire.

Started the French Walking.

The celebrated Dr. Tronchin, friend of Voltaire, Rousseau and Diderot, was the inventor of walking. In France until his epoch (1700-50) the leisured class never walked either for health or recreation. Walking was only practiced by the Tiers Etat. Folks footed it from one place to another simply because they possessed neither coach nor sedan chair. Dr. Tronchin, an initiator in many other respects, introduced "les elegantes et les elegantes," writes a historian, to take what is now called a constitutional. To stroll abroad was named "trouchemine" after the inventor, and for their stridings both sexes had special costumes and shoes, the latter being more especially necessary. The verb "trouchemine" by the way, has not had the fate of our "boycott," having passed into disuse long ago.—Westminster Gazette.

A Baldheaded Reply.

A naval officer, very well and favorably known in London, has for some unknown reason been advanced in his profession very slowly, though he has grown gray in the service and indeed lamentably bald. Recently one of his juniors was bold enough to question him as to his remarkable absence of hair.

"How comes it that you are so very bald?"

The officer replied promptly and with much vivacity:

"You, man, you would be bald, I think, if you had had men stepping over your head for years in the way I have."—London Punch.

A French Joke.

Two doctors were called to attend a man who had suffered an accident to his hand.

"We shall have to amputate three fingers," said one.

"No, two," said the other.

"Three," maintained the first.

"Oh, well, three, then," replied the second. "We won't quarrel over a little thing like that."—Nos Loisirs.

Easy Permission.

"Willie, did you put your nickel in the contribution box in Sunday school today?"

"No, mamma. I lost Eddie Lake, the preacher's son, if I couldn't keep it I'd spend it for candy," he gave me permission."—Denver News.

DIRE DISTRESS

It Is Near at Hand to Hundreds of Barre Readers.

Don't neglect an aching back. Backache is the kidney cry for help. Neglect hurrying to their aid. Means that urinary troubles follow quickly.

Dire distress, diabetes, Bright's disease.

Mrs. Daniel Ryan of 54 West street, Barre, Vt., says: "On account of kidney complaint I was hardly able to do my housework. The severe pains in my back, with the headaches and spells of dizziness, were almost more than I could bear. There was also a kidney weakness which disturbed my rest at night. I could hardly stoop over on account of the pain in my back and every cold I caught was sure to settle in my back and aggravate the whole trouble. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and sent my little girl to E. A. Brown's drug store for a box. They were just what I needed and acted directly on the kidneys, relieving the aching in my back and correcting the action of the kidney secretions, while the spells of dizziness passed away. My back became stronger, I felt better in every way and could do my work without feeling the weakness in my back. You are at liberty to tell the people of Barre what Doan's Kidney Pills did for me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

DELEGATE TO NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Letter Carrier Lewis Attending Its Gathering at Canton This Week.

The above is a likeness of one of Barre's most popular letter carriers, Earl Lewis, a fact which was established at the meeting of the Vermont Letter Carriers' association held in Montpelier last May when he was unanimously elected delegate to the National convention which opened in Canton, Ohio, Tuesday. Mr. Lewis was born in Selby, O., in 1876 coming to Vermont about 18 years later. Besides being a letter carrier Mr. Lewis is an experienced designer and as such is widely known by granite men throughout the United States. After serving a short time as a substitute, he was appointed as a regular and his efficient work and courteous manner has won him many friends.

MELONS IN STORAGE.

How a Rural J. P. Decided a Suit Between Neighbors.

Problems worthy of Solomon's acumen are often submitted to these rural arbitrators, justices of the peace. In the Macon county (Mo.) archives is a case of this sort:

Timothy Kain, a farmer of Easley township, set out some watermelon vines which grew so luxuriously that they trespassed upon the field of his neighbor, Felix Hopper. When gathering time came Kain's attempt to harvest his runaway product was rebuked by Hopper and his shotgun. The controversy got into court, and Squire William Easley, for whom the township was named, was asked to decide the ownership of ten watermelons worth 15 cents apiece. The lawyers for Kain read books to show that his rights of property followed the vines clear into the next county should they travel so far. Hopper's lawyers produced equally sound "law" to prove that Hopper was entitled "law" to anything that camped on his premises. It wasn't Hopper's fault, they said, if the vines wanted to spread out and go visiting. He had the same right to them that he would have to a colony of honeybees that might get tired of being with Kain and concluded to move over and make honey for Hopper.

Squire Easley let the lawyers spout until they had read through all their books; then he arose to his six feet and said:

"Mitchell has read books that make it absolutely certain that melons belong to Kain. I hadn't any doubt in the world about that till Guthrie here got up and turned Mitchell's law bottom side up. There's no question but what there's enough law in the books for both Kain and Hopper, and that ought to make 'em happy. The court decides under the circumstances that with the law deciding both ways there's nothing to do but to hand out justice as he sees it. The judgment of the court is that those are Kain's melons."

"Thank you, your honor," said Mitchell, arising and bowing.

"But that he's indebted to Hopper 20 cents apiece for storage," finished the justice.

"But, your honor," said Mitchell indignantly, "you can't do that. They haven't filed any claim for storage. Besides, you're allowing them more for their melons than they're worth on the market."

"The court will take judicial notice of the defendant's rights, offset or no," said Squire Easley, with some asperity. "And your own evidence shows Hopper was diligently guarding Kain's property for him. That's worth something."

"Guarding it?"

"Yes, Kain himself testified Hopper was there with a shotgun when he climbed over the fence."—Kansas City Star.

Professor Matched the Boss.

Boston and Cambridge people of an earlier day remember well Professor Child of Harvard, a scholar who was likewise a live man. They tell with great gusto a story about his faithful attention to city politics. Professor Child always attended to his duties as a citizen of Cambridge. One night he went to a ward meeting at which a boss began to put forth some of his warped ideas. The college professor was specially on his feet and scathingly denounced the boss and his methods. After the meeting was over the good natured boss, just to show that he bore no ill will, met the scholar on the stairs and, penitently handing over a cigar, said, "Have a smoke, professor?" His antagonist straightened up, took the cigar and said with great dignity, "Yes, I'll match you in any of your lesser vices!"—Boston Herald.

Didn't Get a Patent.

Among the strange applications which reach the patent office one day some years ago was most extraordinary, it being a petition for a patent for an anti-guard which consisted in merely drawing a chalk mark around a table or other piece by which it was claimed the approach of ants was stopped. It seems that chalk makes an ant's legs slip as soaping a track prevents a railway engine from starting. The petition was novel and caused considerable amusement. The application, however, was refused on the ground that there was nothing new in the invention, that chalk had been used for such purposes before and that such ideas were not patentable.

Climbing 199 Steps to Church.

The only way of reaching the old parish church at Whitby, in Yorkshire, from the town is by means of 199 stone steps—probably as curious an approach to a place of worship as any in the kingdom. The church stands on the east cliff some 200 feet above the sea level, and to reach the service of worshippers before and after service threading its way up and down the winding stairway is a sight to be remembered.—London Strand.

Forgetful.

"Tommy," said his mother reprovingly, "what did I say I'd do to you if I ever caught you stealing my again?"

Tommy thoughtfully scratched his head with his sticky fingers.

"Why, that's funny, ma, that you should forget it too. Hanged if I can remember."—Everybody's.

Mechanically.

Judge—And what did the prisoner say when you told him that you would have him arrested? Complainant—He answered mechanically, yes, your honor. Judge—Explain, Complainant—He hit me on the head with a hammer.—Exchange.

The fault is always as great as he that commits it.—French Proverb.
